

Introduction to Human Anatomy

The human body is made up of many systems.

The skeletal system provides structure and support.

The nervous system controls body functions.

The cardiovascular system pumps blood.

The respiratory system helps in breathing.

The digestive system breaks down food.